TRACED TO THE CHURCH DOOR

Durrant and Miss Lamont's Movements on the Fatal Day Minutely Detailed.

Every Witness Positive under Cross-Examination—Durrant Shows Some Uneasiness.

San Francisco, Sept. 19.—Theodore Durrant has been taken by his prosecutors right up to the scene of the murder of Blanche Lamont in Emanuel Baptist church. Yesterday's trial passed him beyond the church gate. The day before Mrs. Crossett had left him either at the corner of 21st or 22nd street and Valencia, going towards Bartlett street with a young lady. To-day Martin Quinlan took him past the corner of 22nd and Bartlett streets, still with the young lady, and then Mrs. Caroline S. Leek told of seeing him pass along in front of Emanuel Baptist church and enter the gate at the side of the church towards 23rd street. He opened that gate and let the young lady he was with pass in ahead of him. This was after 4 o'clock on April 3, the day Blanche Lamont disappeared. If the jury should accept all the circumstantial evidence as true the case against Durrant would certainly be a very hard one to overcome. Mrs. Vogel saw Durrant hanging about the school where Blanche Lamont was. Her school friends saw him with her, going from the school as far as Market street. Mrs. Crossett saw him with the young lady unknown to her, on a car which had passed up Market street. Quinlan saw him with a young lady. Mrs. Leak thought that young lady was either Blanche Lamont or a Miss Turner.

Positive identification of the girl Durrant was with stops at Market street. The case weakens somewhat, too, after that point. Mrs. Crossett is positive, but she is very old. Mrs. Leak, again, is very old, and, unlike most women under similar circumstances, kept her important information to herself during the exciting days of the search for the missing girl, the finding of the body, the coroner's jury and the preliminary examination. The same is true of Mrs. Crossett. Now, the question is, can the defense so cloud this portion of the prosecution's case as to cause that "reasonable doubt" to arise in the minds of the jurymen?

The defense does not say a word about what it expects to prove. From Durrant to Judge Thompson, however, there is an unbroken front of confidence. They laugh and sniff at the most damaging testimony. Nothing leaves a wrinkle on the foreheads of the attorneys or Detective Morse. They cloak their case with mystery, fish around with the prosecution's witnesses a good deal and look wise. Opinion among the habitues of the court room is divided as to whether the defense will be the most brilliant one seen in San Francisco in years or nothing at all. A reliance upon small technicalities and minor contradictions. The veil will have to be lifted before long, however, for at the present rate of progress the prosecution will have presented, all its evidence by the middle of next week. Then the opening statement of the defense ought to open the eyes of the many who have so long waited to see.

As for the prisoner, he has at last begun to show some slight signs of breaking down under the long strain. Before the case opened he was unconcernedly reading a Denver paper. During the morning he smiled a good deal, while his attorneys led Police Court Attorney Martin Quinlan from saloon to saloon and drink to drink on April 3. But when old Mrs. Leak was giving her testimony, when she stepped down and pointed her feeble finger at him in accusation, he bent and cast down his eyes. For once he was not the easiest man in all the place. Still, before the day was over, he yawned behind his paper at the tediousness of the cross-examination—yawned as naturally as if he were the least interested man in the back row of the court room crowd.

The prosecution has shown by the testimony of Mrs. Vogel that the accused walked up and down the sidewalk in front of the high school until Blanche Lamont came out. He was then seen to take a car with her, and started toward Market street. Later he was seen on a Valencia street car in company with a young lady answering Blanche Lamont's description by Mrs. Crossett, who has known Durrant intimately for years. The evidence that has been introduced relative to Durrant's whereabouts on the afternoon of April 3 is directly contradictory to his statement made on the night of his arrest that he had not seen the murdered girl after he left her on the way to the school on the morning of the 3rd. He still maintains that he was at the medical college at the time Mrs. Vogel says she saw him at the normal school, but the defense has not found any of Durrant's fellow students to corroborate the statement. Maud Lamont, a sister of the murdered girl, was on the stand for a short time to-day for the purpose of identifying a portrait of Blanche introduced as an exhibit by the prosecution. The defense fought hard against the admission of this portrait, apparently fearing that it might lead to the identification of Durrant's companion by those witnesses who assert that they saw him on the afternoon of April 3, but who were unacquainted with the girl who accompanied him. Then Martin Quinlan, an attorney, took the stand and supplied another link to that furnished by the evidence of Mrs. Crossett, testifying that he saw Durrant and a young lady walking on Bartlett street toward Emanuel church about 10 minutes past 4 on the 3rd of last April.

To-day's proceedings began with Miss Maud Lamont again on the stand, this time to identify a photo of Blanche. Although taken three years ago Maud said it was very like Blanche at the time she disappeared. The defense objected vigorously to the picture being introduced as an exhibit, evidently fearing it would lead to further identification of Blanche as Durrant's companion on April 3.

Martin Quinlan said he had lived for ten years at 23rd street and Mission streets, near Emanuel church. He had frequently seen Theodore Durrant in the neighborhood, and knew him well by sight. On the afternoon of April 3 he had an engagement with David Clark, at the corner of Mission and 22nd streets at 4 o'clock. About 10 minutes past 4 he saw Durrant and a girl in a dark woollen dress and Leghorn hat. They crossed Bartlett and 22nd streets, going toward Emanuel church. They passed close to witness, and he was listening eagerly to something the girl was saying. The girl was carrying a package tied with a strap. Defendant's attorney tried to make Quinlan admit that he had had so many drinks that day that he could not recognize anyone, and that his testimony was practically valueless. Quinlan was required by the defense to detail every movement he made on April 3, from the time he rose till night. He told of every drink he took, and Durrant's attorney tried to make him admit that he had visited innumerable saloons, but witness was not to be bluffed, and stuck to his story without variation. Continuing the cross-examination Quinlan was asked to describe the streets, sidewalks and houses in the neighborhood of Emanuel church and along the line of street cars that Quinlan took from new city hall to his home in the Mission. Witness said he fixed the date on which he saw Durrant and the girl approaching the church by the aid of his friend Clark, with whom he went later in the afternoon to see Clark's brother in St. Luke's hospital. The time he took to go from the city hall to the Mission and 22nd streets was about 15 minutes. For the purpose of impeachment the defense asked witness if he had ever been arrested. The prosecution objected and the objection was sustained. Defense tried hard to get in the fact that Quinlan had been arrested for assault to commit murder, but as they had to admit that Quinlan had been acquitted, the whole matter was ruled out.

Mrs. Caroline S. Leak was called as a witness, and under the questioning of the prosecuting attorney took Durrant and his girl companion up to the door of Emanuel church. Mrs. Leak was positive that she saw Durrant enter the church with a female companion on April 3. She has known him for years, and could not be mistaken. Cross-examination failed to weaken her testimony.

KU CHENG RIOTERS BEHEADED

Minister Denby Reports Satisfactory Progress in the Commission.

Washington, Sept. 18.—The joint American and British commission which is investigating the missionary riots at Ku Cheng, is making most satisfactory progress in fixing the responsibility for the outrages and securing the summary punishment of the guilty parties. Cablegrams were received at the state department to-day from both Minister Denby at Peking, and Consul General Jernigan at Shanghai, stating that seven of the Chinese who were convicted by the commission of being ring leaders in the assaults, were decapitated this morning. The commission is still proceeding with its work. Minister Denby reports that he is making headway in the organization of the independent commission that will investigate the Cheng To riots.

WOULDN'T HELP CUBA MUCH

If the United States Should Recognize the Patriots as Belligerents.

Spain is Not Making Much Headway in Suppressing the Insurrection.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Save vague newspaper reports, nothing is known at the state department of the intention of this government or other American republics to recognize the belligerency of the Cuban revolutionists, and it is quite certain that no formal application for such recognition at the hands of the United States has been made up to this time. It is not perceived here how the insurgents could reap any substantial advantages at this time from such recognition, and the only comfort that they could derive would be from the moral effects of an assent by an independent power to the proposition that they had assumed statehood. During the previous revolution in Cuba several of the South and Central American republics did recognize the belligerent rights of the insurgents; but no benefit was derived therefrom. In the present case, if Mexico gave such recognition, as is reported, aside from the moral effect the result would be to stop the Spaniards from using Mexican soil or resources to operate against the insurgents. They could not buy any war vessels or equip any with munitions of war in Mexican ports, and Mexico would simply stand exactly neutral toward both parties.

As it is reported that Spain is now fitting out some small craft in the United States to aid in the blockade of the Cuban coast, this proceeding would have to be stopped at once if the United States should extend recognition to the insurgents. Either side could ship all the arms and ammunitions of war they cared to buy in the United States to Cuba, provided they went out as simple merchandise on regular merchant ships and were not accompanied by a force of men whose object was plainly to arm themselves therewith for hostile operations after leaving our waters, but, as this can now be lawfully done, recognition would not extend any privileges not now possessed by the insurgents.

As far as the United States is concerned, however, it took such a pronounced stand in the Brazilian insurrection that it could scarcely recognize the insurgents in the case of Cuba at present without a complete reversal of its position. It has held that to entitle them to recognition the insurgents must set up a seat of government and maintain it; that they must issue money and must possess a navy to make effectual any blockade they wish to establish; in short, they must have an actual de facto government. The state department is not notified that any of these requirements has been met by the Cubans.

New York, Sept. 19.—Senor Dupuy de Lome, Spanish minister at Washington who is in this city, says the revolt in Cuba will be crushed in less than six months. He says he has received from General Martinez Campos a personal letter in which the fall campaign against the revolutionists is fully outlined. General Campos will conduct the campaign in person. No active operations will be undertaken, the minister said, until the excessive heat is over. The minister said the regiments were all on a war footing, and the navy on the Cuban coast in a satisfactory condition. Fifteen men-of-war of the cruiser type are on the coast duty, apart from about twenty small gunboats twenty-nine gunboats are under construction in Spain and twenty in England. They are due on the Cuban coast early in November or December. The minister said the extent of area involved in the present revolution has been grossly exaggerated. It is confined to sections of Eastern Cuba, and the rebels hold no place of any importance whatever.

Key West, Fla., Sept. 17.—It is stated on reliable authority that an expedition consisting of several hundred well-equipped men left here on Sunday for the Keys, where they are to meet a vessel that will take them to Cuba. For the past several days many Cubans have been arriving here whose actions have led the United States and Spanish authorities to believe they are filibusters. These Cubans have all mysteriously disappeared, and with them many of the local Cubans. The Spanish consul cabled his suspicions to Havana, and the gunboat Conde Venadito, of Alfonso notoriety, last night arrived to head off the expedition. The air is full of filibustering rumors, and the arrival of the gunboat greatly excited the Cubans. The gunboat left to cruise along the keys, and to intercept, if possible, the filibusters while they try to cross the gulf. There is little doubt that all has been arranged for an expedition to sail.

Havana, Sept. 18.—Eighteen persons were arrested here to-day upon the charge of being concerned in the insurgent cause. Among the number arrested was the secretary of Julio Sanguily, who several months ago was arrested and committed to Moro Castle on the charge of treason.

MUST SHUN M'KINLEYISM.

Or Lose Control of the World's Food and Cotton Supplies.

Future of the Papacy—Times on Cuba—General Cable Gossip.

London, Sept. 18.—The Standard this morning commenting upon the release of ex-Queen Lmoukalani, of Hawaii, and upon the revolution, says: "Hawaii has treaties with England and France which give them protective powers over the island, quite as much, if not more than the United States government. In order to split up the rival factions as to prevent a revolution, Hawaii ought to be put under the actual protection of the powers most greatly concerned in her welfare.

A dispatch to the Standard from Madrid says that the government has arranged with Paris bankers for a credit of £4,000,000 sterling for the war in Cuba.

The Daily News' Vienna correspondent telegraphs that the anti-Semite agitation has culminated in the murder of a synagogue official. In the streets tonight many Jews were grossly ill-treated.

General Gascoigne has started for Ottawa to take up the command.

The Standard in an article on the revival of the world's trade says: "In both England and America the expansion in the movement of capital is partly due to the renewed activity on the stock exchanges, but the railway returns show a solid substratum of increased mercantile transactions. The returns have improved in America the earliest, because America awoke first. The money market is now overloaded, partly owing to the bungling currency experiments in the United States, but the heavy bullion movements to England from America have not upset any of the great markets. Everything points to a further expansion of trade. For a time high prices might override high tariff, but much depends in the next few years how America and France and the colonies shall treat England in the matter of tariffs. The United States seem disposed to revert toward McKinleyism. Should they do so they would suffer a more serious defeat in their efforts to control the world's food and cotton supplies than they have ever done."

Discussing the revival of the rumor that Italy may be induced to sell a small territory to the Pope, a Paris correspondent telegraphs that the project for the ransom by the Catholic world, which is described as "A noble American conceit," is no secret in the cabinets of Europe, which have been for some time in possession of the details of the plan. It embodies in addition to the establishment of the Papacy in a principality with its own sea port, certain naval privileges and the restoration of the confiscated church property. Negotiations are said to be progressing between the Vatican and the quirnal.

The Pall Mall Gazette commenting this afternoon upon the letters which passed between Lord Dunraven and the New York yachtsmen, regarding the America's cup races, says that it desires to re-open the controversy only so far as to make the opportunity to pay a tribute to the sportsmanlike behaviour of Mr. Iselin. It is a pity, the article says, that Mr. Iselin's handsome offer to Lord Dunraven could have met with action. The American yachtsmen, the Gazette concludes, deserve the respect of all lovers of sport.

The Times this morning has a column editorial discussing the result for Cuba of a successful insurrection or a voluntary grant of home rule. The article says: "Of course if either led to untimate annexation by the United States, the good government and progress of the country might be expected. But difficulties of more than one order might stand in the way of a solution. Even if the United States were prepared to admit the island, with its large colored population, to the union, the negro problem is one of the most serious which the great republic has to face. She is not likely to aggravate it by a voluntary action, save for some exceptional reasons."

The News that an American sugar planter has obtained the exclusive right to land a submarine telegraph cable in Hawaii, is the cause of much discussion here among the advocates of a British cable to the island. The details of the American concession will be published to-morrow.

The Times publishes a dispatch from Shanghai which says that the Emperor has sanctioned the immediate building of the railway from Shanghai through Suchau and Chin Kiang to Nanking, in order to forestall the Japanese demands.

Liverpool, Sept. 18.—Directors of the National Line S. S. Co., have decided as a result of a poll of the shareholders, to break off negotiations for an amalgamation of the National with the Leyland, Wilson and Furness S. S. companies, which has been pending for some time. It is understood also that the directors will decline the proposition of the Allan company to enter in to a business arrangement on a basis of a maximum commission to the National company of four per cent., on outward, and one per cent. on inward business, and that the National Line Steamship Company will go into liquidation.

Glasgow, Sept. 18.—The gun boats which have been constructed for the coast guards of Cuba, have been completed, and their crews left Cadiz to-day on the Convoy Alonza XII. for Cuba.

Berlin, Sept. 18.—The National Zeitung says that it has authority for declaring that the rumors that Prince Hohenlohe is about to retire from the post of imperial chancellor are utterly devoid of foundation. The Emperor, it is stated, has not expressed himself in favor of the enactment of new and more drastic legislation against the socialists, and, therefore, there is no disagreement between the chancellor and Emperor William on this subject.

The National Zeitung says that Prince Henry of Prussia, a brother of Emperor William, has been granted a furlough of a year, on account of his uninterrupted service for several years' duration as an officer in the German navy.

Shanghai, Sept. 18.—Although the more humble among those concerned in the massacre of missionaries at Ku Cheng have been punished, the utmost efforts of the British consul have been unavailing to induce the authorities to deal with the viceroy of the province and with other high officials who are alleged to have been responsible for the riots. It is believed that Great Britain will insist that these offenders shall be brought to justice.

SUICIDE AT FORT ERIE

Unknown Young Man Shoots Himself—Fight at a Wedding.

Fort Erie, Ont., Sept. 18.—A young man committed suicide at the Cottage hotel here some time during last night, by shooting himself through the breast. He came here on Monday, hailing from Pittsburg, where he said he had been employed at the Western House. He was about 26 years of age. A young lady was with him yesterday. In his pocket was found a lady's photograph and 45 cents in money. The only clue to his identity is the name "Ressenden" found on his collar. No inquest will be held. The shooting was not heard, and the remains were not discovered until 8 o'clock this morning.

Toront, Sept. 18.—P. S. Harman, on behalf of the Royal Canadian Yacht club, yesterday wrote to J. Brand, owner of the half-rater Spruce IV., now in New York, offering a cup for competition between the Spruce and the R. C. Y. 18 foot class, which is the smallest in the club, the race to take place in Toronto bay.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 18.—It was reported here to-day that during a wedding ceremony near Meat Cove, C. B., last night, a fight occurred during which Hugh Alexander, John and Allen McEachern and John Donohue were stabbed by John Burton, with a large jack knife. Three of the wounded men are not expected to live. The place is one of the wildest on the Cape Breton coast, where the laws are set at defiance, and it is believed the culprit cannot be taken without the assistance of military force.

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 18.—A correspondent at English Bay, Anticosti, writing to a firm in this city, says: "The island of Anticosti is likely to change hands. It is under offer to Mr. Depecher, of Paris, who has an option which expires on the first of October. He is purchasing for Mr. Menier, of chocolate fame, who is reported to be worth two millions of francs. Latest advices are to the effect that the purchase will almost certainly be completed." Anticosti is a famous resort for seal and bear hunting and for salmon trout, cod and herring fishing. It has also valuable peat and mineral deposits.

DESTINED TO BE EMPEROR.

Appearance and Manner of the Oldest Son of William II.

Compare the young Crown Prince of Germany with an American lad of his age, and it is to be feared that from a physical, as well as from an intellectual standpoint, he would make rather a poor showing. He is now in his fourteenth year, and weighs only 72 pounds, which is exceedingly little for a lad of his age, the average being about 100 pounds. The Crown Prince and his brother have just completed a pedestrian tour through Southern Germany. It terminated at Constance, where they spent about a fortnight in the Island hotel, a very stately and picturesque hostelry. They awaited there the arrival of their heavy baggage from Berlin, and its contents afforded some indication as to their tastes. The Crown Prince had his violin and his collection of coins, while his brother, Prince Eitel, was enthusiastically busy with his stamp album. But their favorite amusement seems to be playing with tin soldiers. Close upon a hundred boxes of soldiers were in the baggage. With these they amused themselves all the day, building castles, fortresses, and armies, infantry, and cavalry, and artillery all in their proper place.

The two boys are always dressed alike, sometimes in white flannel and white felt hats, and sometimes in navy blue sailor costume, with knickerbockers, black stockings, dogskin gloves, and straw hats. They both seem to dislike being stared at. The Crown Prince showed resentment while at Constance, when too much attention was paid him. Nothing delighted them so much as the devices adopted by their attendants and by the management of the hotel to prevent the future subjects of the Crown Prince from getting even a glimpse of the boys. Indeed they seemed to look upon the public almost in the light of an enemy, and to thoroughly enjoy everything done to disgruntle it.

In spite of the diminutive stature and delicate physique of the Crown Prince, he seems to be a brisk little fellow—fair-haired and thin, the very image of his father, both in features and manner, copying his father's military swagger and peculiarities of gesture in the most entertaining fashion. Prince Eitel, who, although a year younger, weighs close upon a hundred pounds, and is much broader and taller, resembles his mother. His hair is dark, and so are his eyes. Until his locks were clipped he was really a beautiful boy, his eyes being sometimes dreamy, and sometimes lighted up with a sparkle of mischief, of which he is a perfect little demon.—New York World.

SHAKESPEARE'S MOTHER.

The Mary Arden House at Wilmcote to be Opened to Visitors.

It will be interesting to Shakesperians in this country to learn that what is known as the "Mary Arden House" at Wilmcote will hereafter be thrown open to visitors.

A hamlet some two miles from Stratford-on-Avon, and in the southern part of Woody Warwickshire, Wilmcote has little beyond the constant charm of a rural village to attract the visitor. A stranger might pass through it time and time again without any thought that the long, two-storey house, divided from the country road to Snitterfield only by its own garden, full of shrubs and old-fashioned flowers, is the home of Shakespeare's mother, the most fully authenticated, yet the least cared for, of all the houses connected with Shakespeare's memory.

For the last few years Mary Arden's house has been occupied by a family of honest, common sense farmers, who rather resented the curiosity of numerous enthusiastic globe-trotters, and discouraged such visitors as wished to "see over" the house. But recently the property came into the occupation of Mr. Lane, who says that, as he only wishes to farm the land and not occupy the house, since his own house is almost adjoining, he is willing to make the experiment for one year of throwing it open to visitors at a charge of sixpence each. If the sum so realized is enough to pay the rent, he will continue the practice. If it more than pays the rent and maintenance he will, under the advice of competent authorities, gradually furnish the house with such furniture as it may have contained in Shakespeare's time. If the support is not sufficient, he will let the house for residence. The house has only just been thrown open to the public, and, since it is a very pleasant two-mile walk from Stratford-on-Avon, and only a hundred yards or so from Wilmcote station, on the Great Western railway, I trust that it will be visited by a sufficient number of Shakespearian travellers to indmce its present custodian to keep it in repair, and, possibly, eventually, to lead to its being bought by the Birth House Trust.

The house and its surroundings are full of interest. The old, low rooms, with their unpleasant ceilings, the small, stone mullioned, diamond-paned windows, the broad fire places with stone seats built into the Inglenook, and the curiously inconvenient winding staircase, take us back to the old days. The upper rooms, almost everyone of which is on a different level from the next, and some of which are entered by doorways only about four feet high, are still more quaint. Behind the house is the farm yard, with the stables and other buildings on the three sides not occupied by the house itself; and, crossing the yard and passing through the penthouse, under which the waggons are sheltered, we pass the farm yard pond, and so on to the orchard. At the back of the house itself is a long penthouse roof, with the old copper set pot for boiling the clothes at one end, fully exposed to the weather. Immediately behind this, again, is the entrance to the little old bake house, with its great brick oven, and no item connected with the Shakespeare relics carries us back with such a sure domestic touch as this old wash house and bake house where the poet's mother learned the virtues that go to make a home.—London Sketch.

AT THE EXHIBITION.

Over Seven Thousand People Passed Through the Gate Yesterday.

Children's Sports and the Lacrosse Match the Drawing Card —Races Start.

Despite the fact that there was a high wind blowing to-day, with occasional showers, there was every promise of a large attendance at the exhibition and the horse races in connection therewith. Yesterday, however, was the big day, fully 7000 people passing through the gates. This included close upon 3000 children, and 3156 ladies and gentlemen who paid the admittance fee, the balance being made up of holders of membership tickets. It is expected that even this large number will be exceeded on Saturday, when those who have been unable to see the show during the week will be out. To-morrow will also be a good day, at least a thousand visitors being expected from the Sound cities. The horse races should prove a good drawing card, some of the events on the programme being filled with some fast horses.

YESTERDAY'S SPORTS.

Never has a larger crowd been seen in the exhibition grounds than was thre yesterday afternoon and evening. The building and grounds were crowded, and everybody found some way of amusing themselves. Besides the exhibits, which interest both old and young, there were the sports provided by the association. The chief interest naturally centred in the lacrosse match between the Intermediate teams of Victoria and New Westminster. Notwithstanding the rather rough ground and high wind, a really good exhibition of the national game was given. The home team were not as heavy as their competitors, but what they lacked in weight they made up for in science, and consequently the principal battle ground was around the visitors' flags, and the match resulted in a win for the home team by 4 to 0. The boys from the Royal city put up a plucky game from start to finish, and by hard work on the defence prevented the score from being even more one-sided than it was. Their home was rather weak and was no match for Victoria's defense. The home team was well balanced, and not a man but played good lacrosse during the whole match. There was very little rough play, and on the whole the match was an enjoyable one. W. E. Ditchburn acted as referee and Messrs. J. G. Brown and Wheeler as umpires. They all gave satisfaction.

The children's field sports were keenly contested, there being a large number of entries in each event.

In the foot races splendid time was made. The time in the 50 yards, for boys under 8, was 8½ seconds, and the 100 yards, for boys under 15, was 13 1-5, while for over 15, the 100 yards was made in 12 2-5 seconds.

The bicycle races were well contested. Jackson won the school boys' race and Bradley, a brother of E. W., the open for boys. Then there was a race between Jackson and Bradley and several others, for a silver medal offered by Mr. J. D. Esary, of Seattle, and a second prize purchased by subscription. Jackson won, with Bradley, who had an upset, second.

SOME OF THE DISPLAYS.

Weiler Bros. have the space usually occupied by them for an exhibit of goods manufactured at their furniture factory. They have furnished two rooms, a bedroom and a parlor. Both sets are handsome and reflect much credit on the makers.

The Victoria Rice and Flour Mills Company and Messrs. Brackman & Ker, of the National Mills, make very creditable displays of the products of their mills.

A very tastefully arranged display is made by the Canada Paint Company, who show the products of their factory in this city.

The B. C. Pottery and Terra Cotta Company have a smaller exhibit this year than usual, but it shows what splendid articles can be turned out by that firm.

ARTISTIC TAILORING.

Leaders in low prices are appreciated by the general public. This will account for the rush of business experienced by Messrs. Thomas Bros. & Grant, the tailors. They have been so busy during the past few days that their cutters have been working night and day, and although already employing a large number of hands, it was necessary for them to advertise for three additional coat makers and two vest makers. Messrs. Thomas Bros. & Grant's tailor shop at the exhibition building, with its twenty-four fair workers busy on orders, is the centre of attraction for crowds visiting the fair. Messrs. Thomas Bros. & Grant find their present quarters on Broad street too small for their largely increasing business, and they will move shortly to Jamieson's old stand, next to the post-office, where by utilizing the three flats of the building sufficient room is secured. Their low prices, $12 for suits, and $2 and upwards for pants, combined with the excellent quality of their tweeds and worsteds and careful workmanship in all branches, debar all eastern competitors. Don't forget to secure a pair of Messrs. Thomas Bros. & Grant's souvenir pants while visiting the fair.

PENDRAY'S EXHIBIT.

Entering the main building from the front one great feature of former shows is missed. Mr. W. J. Pendray, who usually occupies a large square in the principal hallway immediately beneath the dome, is represented this year by an exhibit some ten feet by twenty-four feet, and while the display is not as elaborate and is wanting in the artistic taste of the past, from the very excellent placing of the goods, one can see at a glance what a hive of industry the name of W. J. Pendray represents. Laundry soaps in endless variety, toilet soaps that would do credit to the complexion of a Patti or an Anderson, or are like an Arab steed, fit to scour the plain. Then there is vinegar for pickling and table use, extract of soap, a washing powder second to none, blacking that will give you the best shine in town, stove polish, bluing and paper boxes, spray for killing all insect pests such as woolly aphides. In a glass case in front are the handsome awards given in former shows. The centre tea and coffee service, so much admired, was received last year, being the first prize awarded by the popular vote of the people for the best exhibit in the show. Then there are three gold, one bronze and eleven silver medals, besides a handsome silver cup, all well earned prizes in open competition, to say nothing of the dozens of diplomas gained by the firm. Such an enterprising house is a credit not only to the city, but to the public at large, and when one can get such sterling goods at one's doors there should be no room for the large amount of imported soaps in the province. Mr. Pendray in conversation mentioned the fact that competition for the three prizes which he offered last year, $25, $15, $10 for the three largest collection of wrappers, representing soap used in the family is being entered into with great spirit. This week the wrappers are pouring in by hundreds.

EXHIBITION NOTES.

The exhibit from the experimental farm attracts much attention.

The prize for drill was awarded to No. 10 company of the South Ward school.

To-morrow is American Day. A large number of visitors will be over from the Sound.

Messrs. R. P. Rithet & Company have exhibits of Enderby flour and canned salmon.

The absence of fakirs is quite noticeable this year. They are few and far between.

Finn's band provides a choice programme of music during the afternoon and evening.

Many visitors have expressed wonder at the fact that there is no exhibit of minerals and ore.

Miss Nash, of Union, has a very fine display of fancy work, for which she was awarded a diploma.

The heavy draught horses exhibited by the Victoria Truck & Dray Company have been greatly admired.

The members of the band have erected a large tent on the grounds, where they have their meals and entertain their friends.

This evening Prof. Robertson will lecture on "Bread and Butter," illustrating it with charts.

The city and provincial police, the latter under Sergt. Langley, have a very efficient patrol on the grounds.

C. W. McCain, of Vancouver, is on the grounds with a collection of jewelry made from the copper of the steamer Beaver.

Upon entering the gounds each lady is presented with a ticket with which to vote for the exhibit which she considers the best.

The military drill by the boys of the public schools under Instructor St. Clair, called forth a great deal of praise for all concerned.

Exhibitors in the yards are high in their praise of the manner in which John Munro, the yard superintendent, looks after their interests.

Mr. Shakespeare's prize for the handsomest baby was won by Mrs. Hicks' baby boy. The judges were Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Betts. There were 20 competitors.

The candy men reaped a harvest yesterday. Two of them, stationed close to one another, commenced cutting prices, which was just what the boys were looking for.

The Semi-Weekly Times, issued this evening, contains a full report of the exhibition, including the complete prize list. Exhibitors should send copies to their friends.

As usual when there is an extra rush, the street car company had a couple of break downs yesterday, causing both the public and the officials of the company a great deal of annoyance.

Levatte & Ward have a number of onions in a bottle in connection with their display, and the one who is fortunate enough in coming the nearest to guessing the correct number secures a cash prize of $5.

The city fathers would be doing their constituents a good turn if they would place one of their water carts on Fort street and Cadboro Bay road during the exhibition week. Yesterday the dust was blowing around in clouds, playing havoc with fine dresses and suits.

FUEL-SAVING HEATER.

In the right wing of the exhibition building Messrs. Perry & Turner, the well known hardware firm, have a large and well arranged display of stoves, heaters, furnaces, copper work for roofing, bicycles, cutlery, etc. Their air-tight heaters are drawing universal attention, as they are just the thing for the cold season. These heaters burn wood, and one fire lasts two days. They are made of sheet steel of two thicknesses, and are air-tight. Two or three inches of ashes are placed on the bottom of the heater. It is then ready for the fire, which never goes out if replenished every 48 hours. For heating halls and parlors nothing more suitable can be found, as they are cheaper and better than ordinary heating stoves and only consume one-fifth the amount of fuel. These heaters are coming rapidly into popular favor. They may be had from Messrs. Perry and Turner on trial, and need not be paid for unless they give the most complete satisfaction. It is unfortunate that the supply of water at the exhibition building is not adequate to allow Messrs. Perry & Turner to use it in their fountain. If the fountain were in operation its beauty would be shown to better advantage. It was made in the manufacturing department of Messrs. Perry & Turner's establishment and does credit to the makers. The top is a bunch of lilies, the water coming out of the centre lily. Another feature of the display is a picture made of copper sheeting. There is also a display of table cutlery made from gold aluminium that is attracting considerable attention. This cutlery does not lose its color, and never wears out. Some of Messrs. Perry & Turner's reliable "Happy Thought Ranges" are also in place. Also Eagle bicycles, which are fast and strong and popular with riders. The display is an excellent one and a credit to this enterprising firm.

M. R. SMITH & CO.'S EXHIBIT.

One of the most attractive exhibits at the fair is the display of M. R. Smith & Co.'s biscuits. There is no other exhibit of the kind with which to compare it, but judged by other displays it is the best at the fair. There are over 250 different varieties of biscuits in as many different boxes, each box having a glass front and being a fac-simile of those furnished to their customers. M. R. Smith & Co.'s biscuits are well known over British Columbia, being shipped to all points in the province and as far east as the Northwest Territories. A very large trade is done by this firm, by whom a number of men and girls are employed at their factory near the outer wharf. This being one of the leading home industries of the province, it should receive every encouragement from the public, both on account of the amount of money spent in wages and otherwise in the province. M. R. Smith & Co.'s biscuits have won the highest honors wherever shown. At the Colonial and Indian exhibition a medal and diploma were awarded for the excellence of the flavor and quality of their biscuits. All visitors to the exhibition should make a point of seeing this display.

FRANCE'S LATEST GRIEVANCE.

Her Soil Annually Insulted by the Haughty Spaniard.

Now that France flatters herself that she has the army of Russia to lean on, she is looking into every hole and corner for grievances that may be set rigat before she is once more seule au monde. A picturesque little grievance has been unearthed in the Pyrenees, where the little French valley of Barcious runs down to the frontier, and joins the Spanish valley of Roncal. Just on the line stands St. Martin's Stone and to this spot come yearly the six neighboring mayors, girded with tricolored scarves, to do homage to Spain, and to hand over three cows as tribute or perhaps as hostages. The Spanish officials haughtily demand thrice whether they demand peace, and the mayors answer in humble chorus, "Si senor; pacem nos poscimus omnes." A Spanish mayor takes a lance and drives it into French soil, after which six Spanish soldiers present their rifles and remain aiming while the officials on both sides join hands over St. Martin's Stone. Then six shots are fired into France, and the ceremony is over. What becomes of the cows is not known. Perhaps they are divided amongst the soldiers.

More than 300 people went this year on the eve of the national fete to witness the performance, and there was a general feeling that the lance which pierced the sacred soil went straight to the heart of every Frenchman present. Many of them were so much moved that they actually gave in their names as protesting against this insult to their country, and when a peaceable burgeois or pasal does that he must be very much moved indeed. Nobody seems to know what would happen if the six mayors would fail to turn up. Probably if they sent six cows instead, the Spaniards would be more than satisfied and war between the two nations hither to friendly would be averted.—The Realm.

SPECIAL.

To the Public.—Read the advertisements in the Times, and patronize the advertisers. The men who advertise in the Times are enterprising, wide-awake, willing-to-please-customers kind of business men, and it will pay you to deal with them. And don't forget to tell them that you read their advertisements in the Times.

To Advertisers.—The Times would rather change the reading matter of advertisements frequently, because there is no room in these columns for "dead" matter. The public, too, read new advertisements, while the out-of-date article is only examined to ascertain its age. But—and this is imperative—the copy for "change" must be received at the Times office before 11 o'clock a.m. of the day it is to appear. No "change" will be guaranteed the same day unless this rule is observed.

ORGANIC CONCERN.

The Colonist, following the lead of the chief Tory organ, affects to believe that opposition papers have "falsely informed" their readers respecting the estimated cost of the Sault Canal. Our neighbor is respectfully referred to the following article on this subject from the Toronto Globe:—

"The Mail and Empire objects to the statement that when the Sault Canal was broached in parliament in 1888 it was to cost $997,650. It refers those who make this statement to Hansard a disproof of it. A reference to Hansard shows that among the items which were considered on May 15, 1888, was one of $997,650 for the Sault Ste. Marie Canal. This was a re-vote from the previous year. The item was challenged by the opposition and some information requested in regard to it. Sir Charles Tupper, who was then finance minister, thought that no information should be needed concerning it as it was a re-vote. The late Mr. Purcell, member for Glengarry, was thoroughly familiar with that portion of the country and the particular place at which the canal was to be constructed. He declared that the sum put in the estimates was a ridiculously small one for the work that was to be done. At that period the back-bench Conservative members treated any warnings or protests in the direction of economy or calling a halt in the expenditures with fine scorn. The statements of Mr. Purcell and other Liberals were not even received with parliamentary courtesy. Mr. Hesson, whom the electors have recently relegated to private life, declared that he did not need any information. He was prepared to vote whatever sum the government asked without question. Other Conservatives expressed themselves similarly. The Liberals stuck to their guns, however, and at length Sir Charles Tupper agreed to postpone the item and bring down the report of the engineers. This was done, and when next the item came up in the house Sir Charles apologized for the error that had formerly been made, and acknowledged that the sum required to get a depth of sixteen feet would be $2,800,000, and if a depth of 20 feet were required the sum would be $3,800,000. Messrs. Hesson and the rest of the Conservative chorus were discreetly silent on that occasion.

"The statement, therefore, that the sum first asked in 1888 for the canal was $997,650 is wholly correct."

The Colonist is also concerned about statements made some time ago respecting the Fraser river improvements, as to which it says: "That invention was given to the world in a double-leaded Times editorial." That statement is a direct falsehood; no "invention" was "given to the world in a double-leaded Times editorial," as the Colonist very well knows. The Times did refer to several rumors current in regard to the Fraser river work, but they were certainly not of its invention. We may further inform our neighbor that it is probable the last has not been heard of the Dominion work on the Fraser. Certain reports are made in regard to it which will very likely form the basis of inquiries in the house of commons or in the public accounts committee.

MUNICIPAL WAYS.

Toronto has a costly water works system, the construction of which has proceeded in piecemeal fashion for many years. A very large proportion of the expenditure represents wasted funds, for the work was done on the usual municipal lines of indecision, want of proper plans and the absence of needed supervision. Finally the citizens got the privilege of using pure water drawn from Lake Ontario and conveyed in a pipe—or rather a combination of pipes and conduits—across the island and the bay to the city pumping station. The city engineer, Mr. Keating, warned the council of the evident danger of interruption to this elaborate pipe line, and recommended that a tunnel be constructed and a continuous steel pipe be laid therein, for the conveyance of the water from outside the island. The council paid no attention to the warning and the recommendation, being backed up in their listlessness by the people themselves. Some two weeks ago a plank got across an open end of the pipe in one of the manholes, the pumps exhausted the water in the line of pipes and immediately a large portion of them came to the surface of the bay. Since then most of the citizens have been condemned to the use of bay water, which is sewage moderately diluted. An endeavor has been made to distribute a supply of drinking water in carts and tanks, but this seems to have been none too successful up to date. Some weeks are expected to elapse before the pipe line can be repaired so as to fit it for bringing over lake water. In the meantime the citizens and the council have been receiving plenty of advice, if not well supplied with water. A number of private individuals incorporated a company some time ago with the idea of taking water from the Georgian Bay or from Lake Simcoe, for the purpose of creating a water power and supplying the city with water. These gentlemen and a number of friends are earnestly advising the citizens to make a bargain with this aqueduct company. Their advice is of course purely disinterested—Victorians know how that is themselves. The council has, however, decided to get the advice of an English expert, at the expense of $15,000, and the chances are that the expert will give the same advice as Mr. Keating gave only to be rejected. Municipal bodies in this country have queer ways of doing business.

THAT $50 RESOLUTION.

To the Editor:—In order to facilitate matters a purchasing agent was appointed and by him supplies for the corporation were to be purchased, which arrangement has already saved money for the city. At the last meeting of the council a resolution was passed which practically takes the power out of the hands of the purchasing agent.

If any part of the machinery in connection with the electric light should break down the city will remain in darkness in consequence of that resolution; water works and fire department the same way.

Some weeks ago tenders were called for printing voters' list and by-laws, and only one responded, but in order to favor the printers with another chance, the one who tendered in good faith had his tender returned and new tenders advertised for, resulting in a combine of the printers, demanding $1.75 per page as against $1.10 for which the work was done last year by the same party who had his tender returned; and it is not to be expected that his tender this year would be higher than last. Seeing that this work will cost over $50, will the council rescind the resolution passed on Monday evening and comply with the demand of the printers or will they stand by the resolution and send elsewhere to have the work done?

Northwest Germans Want Their Language in the Schools.

Winnipeg, Sept. 19.—There is an agitation among the Germans of the Northwest Territories against the present school law. Peter Claussen, of Rosthern, Saskatchewan, has addressed a letter "To the Germans in the Northwest Territories of Canada," calling upon them urgently to go hand in hand together petitioning the government at Regina, and if necessary the Ottawa government for a modification of the present school law of the Territories. The grievance is that under section 83 of the school act all instruction in the public or district schools must be given in the English language. In this provision, the writer says, the German settlers at Rosthern saw danger to their German language, and therefore they hesitated seriously about organizing such schools. To their astonishment they learned that French was allowed to be taught in the schools, and they asked why the French people should have the preference before the Germans.

The writer proceeds to say: "If we are to be compelled in this way to learn only English, then for the most part private schools will be introduced, and the learning of the English language will be postponed for a long time. But if the German language be also allowed in the district schools, then, without doubt, the next generation will become familiar with the English. Our petition, in which we asked that, besides English, the learning of our German mother tongue in this district schools might be granted to us, had been refused by the department of education."

"We Germans in the Territories, wherever we have settled, should now do our duty, and fulfil the obligations handed down to us from our forefathers towards God, the church, the schools, our children and our better convictions, namely, to stand up unitedly for our German mother tongue, to preserve it, to dare something for its continuance, and not allow ourselves to be treated in this manner as a tool without a will, and not always to say 'yea' and 'amen' to that which might have a bad effect upon our descendants."

Mr. Claussen calls upon all the German settlers in the Territories to make common cause by means of a joint petition, if deemed better by one from every settlement, all having the same object, to request the government to permit, along with English, also German instruction in the public schools; also that the schools already existing may be inspected and may receive support. He adds: "This question is of great importance for our continued existence as Germans, as every unprejudiced man will perceive; it is a life question for us and the coming generation."

The concluding observation is as follows: "Hon. Mr. Daly, the minister of the interior, has the immigration department under him, and if he were to interest himself in this matter he could, from the standpoint of immigration, and in the interest of the same, exert a certain influence upon the government in favor of our petition."

CARIBOO NOTES.

Progress Made by the Miners—An Early Snowstorm.

Mr. Grey informed one of the parties on the stage that the dam across the foot of Quesnelle Lake, which is intended to hold back the waters of the south fork into the lake, is soon to commence. The object is to be able to work the bed of the river.

There is much talk of dredging at Quesnelle and the visit of Judge Fishback, of Seattle, has added to the confidence in this direction. If the river beds can be successfully dredged there are untold millions to be taken out of the stream beds of the Fraser, Quesnelle, Cottonwood, Thompson and many other streams in Cariboo, and the northern districts, and perhaps no stream is richer than the Quesnelle—and the north and south fork. The Fader dredger has, in its primitive way, certainly been successful.

The Cariboo mine is running about 16 hours a day with about two thousand inches of water. As soon as the new ditch has settled sufficiently to admit of a full head of water the run will be continuous. As it is only a partial supply is turned into the ditch and the reservoirs allowed to fill. Piping continuously will then empty the reservoirs in 16 or 18 hours. That the Cariboo is a grand mine this season will prove. Gold is showing in the riffles whenever the water is turned off in a manner that gladdens the eye of the mining man and certainly that of the stockholder.

The bars along the Quesnelle river are richer for some reason than usual. Many Chinamen and some white men are rocking.

The Chinaman recently shot by Officer Bain near Quesnelle is doing well, and if nothing unforeseen occurs, will recover.

The first snowstorm of the season made its appearance in Cariboo a few days ago, earlier than usual. According to the theory of the oldest settlers it is a sure sign of a hard winter. The majority of the ranchers are through harvesting, the damage by frost being light.

The Beaver Mouth Hydraulic company are still at work and have two shafts down to bed rock, about one hundred feet, and the third one somewhat deeper and not yet finished. Everything seems to be favorable to this proving a fine property.

Five carloads of iron pipe and fixtures for the Cariboo Gold Fields Company, A. D. Whittier, manager, at Barkerville, arrived at Ashcroft the first of the week. About 30 carloads altogether are here and en route and will be unloaded and started northward as soon as convenient.

During the past week two good and reliable mining men, who were not stockholders, stated, after a visit and inspection of the Cariboo mine at Quesnelle forks, that the showing was remarkable, and that the fall clean-up will astonish even the enthusiasts about the hydraulic mines of the Cariboo region.

Mr. George T. Gardner and associates of Seattle, Wash., are putting in a hydraulic on the Fraser about four miles below Spuzzum on the opposite side of the river. The company are building about 7200 feet of flume of size 2x3 feet to carry water into the mine. They will soon have the pipe and machinery on the ground and expect to have it in operation in about sixty days. They are driving the work as fast as men and money can push it. Mr. Gardner is also putting in a small hydraulic mining plant on the other side of the Fraser river from North Bend and he also expects to have the latter in operation this season.

LOCAL NEWS.

Gleanings of City and Provincial News in a Condensed Form.

—This week's meeting of the W. C. T. U. has been postponed, owing to the agricultural show.

—The steamship Umatilla is due here from San Francisco to-night, and the steamship Walla Walla sails for San Francisco to-morrow night at 8 o'clock.

—The steamship Topeka is scheduled to sail for Alaska to-morrow, but it will very likely be Saturday morning before she gets away. The fare for the round trip is $30, not $30 as has been stated.

—The annual fair of Clallam county, Washington, is to be held at Port Angeles from October 1st to the 4th. The last day has been set aside as Victoria day, and excursions will be run from this city. There will be field and aquatic sports and several novel attractions.

—C. T. W. Piper threatens to begin action against the city as the result of an accident which befell Mrs. Piper through what he says was a defective sidewalk. They were on their way to church Sunday night when Mrs. Piper was tripped by a loose plank and thrown with considerable violence. Application will very likely be made to the council for compensation.

—The pretty tuneful operetta, "The Tyrolean Queen," which is being rehearsed by forty or fifty children, will be produced the latter end of next month. The Operetta is a musical gem and well adapted to children's voices. The children have been well chosen and are studying their parts under competent musical instructors. The proceeds will be for the benefit of St. Joseph's Hospital.

—A large delegation of Knights of Pythias will arrive on Friday evening for the purpose of attending the meeting of Far West lodge No. 1. During the evening the visitors will exemplify the third rank, in which the team from Vancouver will take part. At the conclusion of the meeting the visitors will be entertained at a banquet, which will be held at the Dominion Hotel. The members of the three local lodges and visiting brethren to the number of 150 will attend the convention.

—Aldermen Cameron, McMillan and Partridge, the committee of the city council to whom the tenders for supplying winter clothing and shoes to the police constables was referred, met this morning with Purchasing Agent Northcott, and awarded the contract. Thomas Bros. & Grant were given the contract for supplying the clothing at the following prices:—Constables' suits, $19 apiece; sergents' suits, $27 apiece, and chief's suit, $30. The contract for supplying shoes was awarded to George H Maynard, at $5.50 per pair. There were a large number of tenders, and it required considerable time to examine them all and determine upon the award.

—The Canadian-Australian liner Miowera, Capt. Stott, will very likely get away to the south seas on Saturday. She has a large amount of cargo to receive at Vancouver, the delay in sailing increasing the amount, and the overhauling of her machinery is still in progress. She will take passengers and freight for Honolulu, but will not dock there on account of cholera. The freight will be lightered outside and the passengers will be landed by tender. The Miowera will have to lie up at Sydney to straighten the schedule out. A trip was missed and the Warrimoo will take the Miowera's run on October 16. The delay here, however, reduces the Miowera's lie-up at Sydney to about three weeks.

—The race mare Miss Taff, which had her leg broken on Sunday last, had to be shot yesterday, as it was impossible to save her. After the accident the leg was set by Dr. Tolmie, and the animal was swung up with a sling in the stall. Matters were progressing very favorably when a series of unfortunate accidents undid all the good work. The joists gave away and gave the mare another fall. She was raised only to fall twice again. She was suffering the greatest pain, and the bullet sent into her brain really sped on a mission of mercy. The animal was a fine one, and general regret was expressed at the accident and its result. She was a splendid jumper and a fast runner, and was looked upon as a winner in the hurdle race at the present meet.

—The dates for the Saanich agricultural exhibition are Oct. 3rd and 4th, not Oct. 18th and 19th as previously stated.

—The train from Nanaimo did not arrive until some time after its schedule hour this morning, having been delayed through a couple of trees falling across the track.

—The lightning played some queer pranks with the fire alarm system this afternoon. Every flash could be noted on the board at the central fire hall and the stronger ones sounded the gong.

—That unreliable institution, the telegraph wire, which never feels very strong, and is affected by every change in the weather, succumbed to the gentle breeze this morning; hence the unusual scantiness of the Times' dispatches today.

—An oil painting, "Bridge and Church of St. Palo, Venice," exhibited in T. N. Hibben & Co.'s show window, is attracting much attention and reflects considerable credit upon the artist, Mr. F. Pauline.

—The steamer Schome cancelled her [illegible] on account of the storm. She started out from Port Townsend at 7 o'clock, but turned back shortly after rounding Point Wilson. She will be here in the morning very likely.

—A one-story frame dwelling on Yates street, occupied by G. Macleod, was on fire at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. The chemical engine was quickly at work and suppressed the fire with a loss of $10. The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark falling on the roof.

—To-day is the first day of the year 5656 according to the Hebraic calendar. Services were conducted last evening in the synagogue by Mr. H. Bornstein, senior member of the congregation, and the sermon was preached by Miss Ray Frank, of Oakland, Cal. Services were held again this morning in the synagogue.

—The Norwegian ship Prince Frederick arrived here this morning from Rio de Janeiro. She came in ballast and had an uneventful voyage. The Sea Lion picked her up off the cape and brought her into Royal Roads. She is under charter to load lumber at Hastings Mill, and will be towed there by the tug Lorne. None of her crew came ashore, but the tug Constance went out to her this afternoon. The Prince Frederick is the third of six vessels of the same line that are under charter to load British Columbia lumber for different parts.

—There was a rather funny case in the police court this morning. Geo. Voltz was charged with an infraction of the public morals by-law by Harriet Ford, an Indian woman, and when it came to the hearing it developed that the objectionable language alleged to have been used was, "you dirty old squaw, I'll fix you." There were two women present at the time, and it was not proven which was addressed. Voltz swore that he never addressed the complainant at all. The magistrate held that the case of the prosecution was not up to requirements and dismissed the charge. The costs, which amounted to $2 were collected from Harriet Ford.

—Ah Ying, an old Chinese patriarch, was before Magistrate Macrae this morning charged with assaulting Julia, an Indian woman. Julia's story was that she had given Ying $1.50 with which to purchase a bottle of whiskey, and that he had kept it. She sought him out with Special Constable Carroll, and when she charged him with keeping her money he promptly struck her in the forehead. Ying denied ever having seen her before she came to him claiming $1.50. He was convicted of assault, and fined $5 and $4 costs. Ying is a confirmed opium fiend and a few hours' enforced abstinence from the drug put him in a pitiable condition.

—Miss Birdie Kazaar was in police court this morning charged with assault by Miss Maggie Murphy. Birdie is a resident of the Leneveu cabins, while Maggie Murphy's home is in the Campbell cabins. The former turned up at the Campbell cabins in an advanced state of intoxication and proceeded to make trouble. Miss Murphy was apparently in a humor to accommodate her, and during the row got kicked in the stomach. The court held that as it appeared to be merely a drunken row, in which the blame could not be fixed, a case had not been made out. The costs, amounting to $2, were assessed against Miss Murphy. After the hearing the caretaker of the Campbell cabins wanted to swear to a complaint charging the Kazaar woman with using grossly insulting language. He says that every time she gets full she comes to the Campbell cabins and makes a disturbance.

—Yesterday at Revelstoke Mr. H. Abbott, the general superintendent of the Pacific division of the Canadian Pacific railway, awarded the contract for the building of the extension of the Arrow Lake branch of that road to Mr. D. McGillivray, of Vancouver. The line is to be completed before the end of November and as many men as can be worked to advantage will be put on, so as to get it finished by that time. By this extension and the extension of the Nakusp & Slocan railway to Sandon, which is now rapidly approaching completion, the company will be able to keep communication open with the Slocan district throughout the year, a most important matter for the province, and especially for the large shipping mines in that locality. It will also be of great advantage to the Coast cities, as it will tend very greatly to increase their trade with a very large and important section of West Kootenay.—News Advertiser.

THE DIRECTOR ARRIVES,

She Took a Total of 1318 Seals During the Season.

The new sealing schooner Director, Capt. Gilbert, arrived here from Behring Sea last night. Since she left here on June 4 she took 688 skins, making her total catch for the season 1318, which is regarded as very good. It will be remembered that on the way out off the South American coast she got 630 skins. She got most of the remainder of her catch off the Copper Islands and Behring sea. She would have remained longer but was running short of provisions and Capt. Gilbert decided to head for Victoria. He made a good run down, being 18 days from the pass. The schooner had easterly winds nearly all the way. Capt. Gilbert reports seals very plentiful in the sea, but early in August the weather was rough. Capt. Gilbert reports that on Aug. 18 the schooner Sapphire had 1,200, Triumph 1,000 and Florence M. Smith 800. The Agnes Macdonald was reported with 1,200, but whether for the season or only for the time spent in Behring sea is hard to say. She also spoke the Morrill of Seattle, on Aug. 8 and she only had 45. A couple of schooners were seen outside waiting for a chance to come in.

There was a vague rumor in circulation of another seizure besides that of the Beatrice, but it was not credited.

—Store street was the scene of a collison between the teams of Mike Powers and Alexander C. Howe on Tuesday evening that will very likely result in a law suit. Mr. Howe was injured quite badly, his cart was smashed and Mr. Powers' horse was slightly hurt. Both teams were going in the same direction and Mr. Howe turned out to let Mr. Powers by. At that moment the latters' horse lunged forward upon Mr. Howe's cart. Mr. Howe claims he turned out to the proper side, and Mr. Powers said he did not. It is understood Mr. Powers has declined to pay $150 claimed by Mr. Howe and that the latter as well as his companion will sue

—This has been the stormiest day Victoria has seen for a long time. The windstorm of yesterday continued into to-day, and early in the morning it blew a gale. Then followed a short spell of clear weather with warm sunshine. It clouded shortly after noon, however, and a hail storm that threw hailstones bigger than cherry stones came at once. Rain with thunder and lightning followed and then there was more hail. So much fell that the streets were whitened. As one little boy expressed it: "It did everything to us." Some people said "Wiggins," but most people believe it to be the equinoctial storm.

—The steamer Rosalie did not arrive here until 11 o'clock this morning. Yesterday afternoon as she was entering Seattle harbor the steam pipe leading to her whistle broke at one of the connections. It was necessary to repair the break at once, and the work required longer than was at first believed. It was 2 o'clock this morning when the steamer left Seattle, and in the straits she got quite a shaking up, striking a strong wind and heavy sea all the way over. She left for the Sound again after a short delay.

—A Spokane dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer says that at a meeting of the Le Roi Mining Company, a dividend of $25,000 was declared, and it was stated that the directors hope to declare a monthly dividend hereafter. The mine, which is in the Trail Creek district, is owned by a Spokane man, and has paid for itself and all development work and improvements.

—The United States lighthouse tender Columbine is again in port. She came in shortly after two and anchored off the customs house. She is outward bound from the Sound.

Chemainus News

Chemainus, Sept. 18.—Mrs. R. J. Roberts and Miss Roberts, of Kuper Island, have gone to Victoria to attend the exhibition.

A. Forbes, R. A., of Halifax, N. S., is spending his furlough with his sister, Mrs. H. Burchell, of Thetis Island.

Charles McMillan shot and killed a large panther last week. Another one, which was in the same vicinity, escaped.

Thomas Elliott is building a fine house on his ranch here. Mr. McDiarmid is also building a house and barn and W. Ward is going to build a large residence in the near future, so Chemainus may be said to have a building boom at present.

The cemetery has been cleared and beautified by the residents, and prepared for dedication when the bishop visits this part.

In Lava Lands.

Notes of the Excursion to Hawaii, by Miss Cameron.

Let us leave for the present Honolulu and the busy haunts of men. Come with me to a part of the Sandwich Islands seldom, if ever, seen by the tourist. We will visit, please, the island of Hawaii, the largest of the group. We take passage in an old-fashioned inter-island steamer, the Kilauea Hou. She moves slowly and with a rolling motion that is far from pleasant, but we are patient and soon find ourselves alongside the leper island of Molokai. The lepers are carefully tended in their homes by relatives who, when they can, hide the afflicted ones from health authorities. But no one could wish for dearest friend kinder care than is given the lepers on Molokai. They are provided with good schools, churches and home comforts—all free; and (greatest consideration perhaps of all to a Kanaka) no work is required of them. Leprosy is a painless disease and is endured with philosophic patience by those people, who live, marry and die here without a word of complaint.

Thirty-hours' trip brings us to Mahukona on the island of Hawaii; this is a little country village with a wharf, a dozen houses, a store or two, a warehouse and, to the joy of the sea-sick passengers, a fair restaurant. After refreshing ourselves we take in our surroundings. Near by is a fringe of cocoa-nut palms with a background of blazing hills flaring with different tints of red with not enough vegetation to tone it down, all swimming in a crystalline atmosphere palpitating with heat. It is a relief to let our eyes rest on the deep, rippleless, clear water of the bay and the coral groves below. But we must on. We take our seats on a little sugar train for Kohala and without event reach our stopping place for the night, the Kohala Club, a hotel in the midst of the sugar district kept by "Jimmy the Jap."

Next morning we stroll around the district and literally drink in the scenery. Here is a magnificent coast line of gray cliffs, draped with green and caverned at the base. Into these caves rush the billows with a cannon-like roar, sending their spray up to the fern fronds on the top of the cliff. Cascades from the mountain top pour their hasty tribute through deep gulches to the sea. Above the cliffs are grassy uplands with clumps of candlenut trees; glades of dazzling green relieve the dense forests which girdle the bases of the volcanoes Mauna Loa and Mauna Kea, which here tower up among the clouds to a snow-capped altitude of 14,000 feet. The whole world surely cannot furnish a more brilliant green than this carpet, or so vivid a blue as that above us. Words can scarcely convey an idea of the lavish luxuriance of the vegetation that surrounds us. Unsightly objects there are none; they are all hidden by tropic creepers and parasitic ferns. We gaze upon a bewildering tangle of the green convolvuli maritimus, passiflora, custard apples, mangoes, mangostein guavas, alligator pears, bamboos, magnolias, breadfruit, gardenias, bananas, eucalyptus, with here and there patches of sugar cane and sweet potatoes, and palms everywhere.

Palms set one thinking. How is it that as soon as the coral insects bring to the surface a little atoll island just so soon does an accommodating cocoanut float along, send its roots down to the salt sea and start to sprout upward? What hard, dry dead-looking stems the palms have, and how smooth and regular the rings of growth appear on them! As we lie on the grass lazily speculating, the gentle whisper of the wind in the top plumes calls attention to the weird amber light which envelopes their crowning clusters. Among the first families to make their appearance on a new coral island is the Pandanus odoratissimus, a spreading tree with drooping funereal foliage. This tree has a striking peculiarity in its aerial roots, which act as props sometimes twelve feet in length, and anchor the parent tree securely in inaccessible rocks. The foliage of this peculiar tree is singularly dense, and appears on the branches in long yucca-like leaves; each tuft of which supports in its centre an object much resembling a huge green pineapple. This fruit contains brilliant orange seeds much prized by the natives for holiday leis or garlands; and from the tough longitudinal fibres of the leaves they make mats. At the base of the trees grow in luxurious wealth the commonest ferns of the island of Hawaii, the Sadleria cyathoides and the microlepia tenuifolia.

Appropos of Wheeling.

All who have wheels, not in their heads but for riding, should be interested in the fact that Fibre Chamois is an interlining which will make an outing suit utterly impregnable to damp and chilling winds, while its porous nature allows the free escape of the natural moisture resulting from hearty exercise. One thickness in a suit for wheeling, golf, or other outdoor sport, will ensure a comfortable warmth in all sorts of weather and an immunity from the dangerous chills which too often follow vigorous exercise. While all ladies know that it furnishes a stylish stiffness for their sleeves and skirts, especially adapted for outing suits because it will endure any kind of rough usage.

For Puget Sound Points.

The fast steamer Schome, Chas. E. Clancey, Master, leaves here every morning, excepting Sundays, at 9 o'clock for Port Townsend and Seattle, arriving at Seattle at 4 p.m., connecting with N. P. R. R. train for the east. Returning she leaves Seattle at 10 p.m. daily, excepting Saturday, arriving here at 6 a.m. Tickets at Northern Pacific Railway office, Government street.

NAMES OF THE CONTINENTS.

Speculation as to the Origin of the Five Divisional Terms.

In the Journal des Voyages, M. Ulysse Robert gives the result of recent philological research regarding the names of the continents. We translate an abstract of his article from L'Illustration Europeenne, Brussels, uJne 23:

"It is difficult to discover the origin of the name 'Europe.' Herodotus avows ingenuously that no mortal can give its meaning. Several savants, nevertheless, agree in recognizing in this name a word of Semitic origin, oreb or ereb, which in Hebrew means 'evening' or 'setting,' and the word accordingly signifies 'the land of evening' or 'the twilight land.'

"In any case the word Europe is later than Homer, for it is not found in any of his works. It is mentioned for the first time in a hymn to Apollo, where it serves to distinguish continental from insular Greece. In a word, no one is sure of the exact origin of the name of Europe, and M. Elysee Reclus himself has been obliged to confine himself to very vague conjectures.

"As for Asia, some think that it gets its name from the Semitic root Hatsi, which means 'central.' Others derive it from the Sanscrit word ushas, signifying 'dawn.' Others still think that it is merely the country of the Asians or Aseens, a people mentioned by Ptolemy and Strabo, who lived east of the Sea of Azov in the regions of the Caucasus. Here also Reclus is non-committal; he says that the word Asia means perhaps 'land of the rising sun.'

"As for Africa, called 'Libya' in antiquity, its present appellation seems to be derived from that of a Berber tribe of the Atlas, the Afres, or rather the Avraghen, to-day limited to the desert of Sahara, but once spread far and wide along the northern coast or in the oases of the salt lake region that forms the boundary of Tunis.

"The Romans gave to this country the name of its inhabitants and called it Afrikia. Later, the Arabs extended this name to all the countries that they found, as far as the Pillars of Hercules (the Straits of Gibraltar). And, following them, the Europeans dwelling to the north of the 'Dark Continent' believed that all the region to the south was called by the same name. Africa thus now extends from the shores of Morocco to the Cape of Good Hope.

"As for America, we must destroy a legend. It is generally believed that this continent gets its name from the Florentine Americus Vespucius, who, having landed, after Christopher Columbus, at the mouth of the Orinoco, boasted, in the narrative of his voyage, that he had been the first to reach the mainland. The editor of this narrative, Hylaromylus, of St. Die, in Lorraine, took upon himself to give to the transatlantic land, in memory of Vespucius, the name America, and no one protested.

"Now, it appears certain that America, or rather Amerique, is an Indian word designating the highest lands of Nicaragua. In these lands gold is found in abundance, and when Columbus in his fourth voyage asked of the natives where they found the precious metal, they repeated, pointing towards the horizon, 'Americ.' 'America,' then, signifies 'the land of gold,' and this name, like that of Africa, has extended from its starting point over the rest of the continent. The publisher Hylaromylus, in baptizing a continent, was giving to posterity only a myth, which it accepted with its eyes shut.

"There remains only Oceanica, which gets its name simply from the Ocean, or perhaps from the Oceanides, daughters of Oceanus. According to Hesiod this god was the son of Uranus and Gaea. He had by Tethys, the story goes, three thousand daughters, the Oceanides, and as many sons. This considerable family was changed into the innumerable isles of which the fifth part of the world is composed."—Literary Digest.

A CURIOUS GOLF PLAY.

The Rules Contained Nothing Governing the Difficulty.

Here is a curious happening in a golf game played at Morristown, N.J., last week. The New York Times thus describes it: "Shippen did the course in 92, making some admirable drives and some well judged puts on the green when his ball lay several yards from the hole. He holds the club record of 88 for the long course, and to-day made another record which as a sample of the peculiarities of golf playing, will probably not be equalled at Morristown for some time to come. In driving to the twelfth hole his ball cut through the branches of an old apple tree, knocking off a few small apples. A diligent search under the tree in the spot where the ball ought to have fallen failed to reveal any trace of it, and finally, as a joke, some one suggested that the golf ball might have stayed up in the tree. Such an idea was laughed at, but still the branches of the tree were carefully inspected, and the little white ball was found, snugly ensconced between two twigs, well out in one of the branches. Golfing rules have nothing to say about balls in apple trees, so the ball was quickly brought to earth by the caddies and Mr. Shippen played it from where it fell."

None But Ayer's at the World's Fair.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys the extraordinary distinction of having been the only blood purifier allowed an exhibit at the World's fair, Chicago. Manufacturers of other sarsaparillas sought by every means to obtain a showing of their goods, but they were all turned away under the application of the rule forbidding the entry of patent medicines and nostrums. The decision of the World's fair authorities in favor of Ayer's Sarsaparilla was in effect as follows: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine. It does not belong to the list of nostrums. It is here on its merits."

THAT SHAWNIGAN SHOOTING.

To the Editor: I notice a letter in your issue of the 15th by a party signing himself Settler, Cowichan, referring to a paragraph which appeared in your issue of the 10th inst. Mr. Settler says it was not a shotgun with which the hunter drew on the duck, but a rifle, which makes all the difference. The hunter was warned not to fire, not on account of the duck, but because there were boats with occupants moving about on the lake, and as the constable was concerned for their safety he interfered on their behalf." First, it was not a shotgun but a rifle—that makes all the difference. Then he was warned not to shoot—by whom? I would like to ask Mr. Settler what he would do if a youth in knee breeches was to step up and order him not to shoot after he had drawn on a duck. Treat him with cool indifference, of course. Then if said youth should snatch his rifle land one on said youth's countenance, no doubt, and think himself badly treated if any one had dared to question his right to do so. But it was Mr. Shore, not Mr Settler, who was placed in the above position, "which makes all the difference." If Mr. Settler had happened to tighten his fingers on the trigger after Mr. Youth had pulled his rifle in line of a boat, and killed some one (a thing that might have happened under the circumstances), Mr. Settler would have expected Mr. Youth to be held for manslaughter. So would every one else, I think. If Mr. Youth had shown his badge or made known his authority before attacking Mr. Settler that would have made all the difference. Those who know Mr. Shore know he is not a man who would interfere with any limb of the law while that limb was attending to his duties, even should it be a fresh sprouted sprig. The fact is there happened to be quite a crowd in front of the Shawnigan Lake Hotel looking on, and Mr. Constable evidently thought he would make a play for the gallery, when all of a sudden some of the spectators thought he had brought down the whole house and had been slightly injured by some of the falling fragments. Mr. Settler should have warned hunters to arm themselves with boomerangs when coming to Shawnigan lake, because perhaps hunters are not aware that the course of a bullet is not under their control when shot in the woods. A small twig or rock is apt to throw it out of its course, and there are a great many people in the woods just now, but you can't see them there the same as on the lake, "and that makes all the difference." Mr. Settler goes on to say: "Had the hunter been prosecuted for an assault on a constable in the execution of his duty $5 and costs would not have satisfied the law. He may be pleased he was not." We are led to infer by this that the $5 was a tax imposed for the purpose of buying imaginary sticking plaster to draw together the lacerated wounds inflicted by Mr. Shore on this young constable's dignity. The impression here is had Mr. Shore prosecuted the constable the $5 would have been paid by the other party, and that would have made all the difference. Mr. Settler seems to lose sight of the fact that there are twenty shots fired from the west coast of the lake to one from the east, and when firing from the west coast there is a large hotel, numbers of houses, a saw mill with men working all round it, and at times train loads of passengers passing, all directly in front of them, and still, strange to say, no one has ever been killed, and these hunters shooting from the west coast are not likely to be interfered with. It would be too much like work for the constable to walk around, and, even if he could ride, there would be no audience for him to perform before. I am free to admit that there is more or less danger in shooting heavy calibre rifles on the lake, but think a few notices requesting hunters to use a little more than ordinary care when shooting would be more effective and cost a good deal less than the present arrangement, as it costs in the neighborhood of $1500 a year for our duck herders. Or perhaps Mr. Settler has another young man in the neighborhood of Duncan's or some one who would like to get into the position of public scarecrow to patrol Shawnigan lake to shoo the ducks away. That might suit him better. ZIP.

ENGLISHMAN'S RIVER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Englishman's River, Sept. 13.—Travelers are constantly passing through on the road to Alberni ;not only on the mail stage, but in rigs of every kind and on foot.

The long expected scow with lumber from the Nanaimo sawmill has arrived, and been unloaded. Getting the lumber ashore here is no easy matter, as the beach is flat, and it has to be floated in on rafts when the tide will allow.

Several houses are going up this fall. David Hicks is building one for Mr. Albert Hirst on his land adjoining the post-office (Postmaster Andrew Hirst). Parksville should be called Hirstville by rights, as almost all the property belongs to members of that family.

Mr. McCarter is rebuilding to replace the house lost by fire last spring. This was the half-way house for the Alberni mail, which has since made the new hotel (John Hirst, proprietor), its stopping place.

Mr. W. Harris, who has just been joined by his brother from Michigan, is improving the buildings already on the property he has bought from Mr. Joe Hirst. Others who are building or improving are Mrs. Coe, Mr. Otto Rentz, Mr Andrew Hirst and Mr. George Plummer.

Mr. Carl Graves has charge of the telegraph line from Qualicum to Comox, and Mr. D. Millan from the lake to Wellington.

Some Japanese intend working a portable saw mill on Englishman's River falls.

The land round French Creek church is being cleared. This pretty church is a gift to the settlement from the Rev. Mr. Cooper of Wellington, and narrowly escaped the terrible bush fires this summer

The school, which was opened here under Miss Fraser, is keeping up its attendance well, and giving general satisfaction.

NELSON.

Nelson Tribune.

The work of grading side tracks or spurs for the Hall Mines, Limited, smelter, at Nelson, has been commenced.

Work has again been begun on the Tam O'Shanter, a property on the Kootenay lake above the Blue Bell, and owned by the Montreal & Kootenay Mining Company.

The Methodist congregation has appointed an efficient building committee, and commenced the erection of a church building.

O. D. Hoar, who is prospecting for a syndicate of Canadian Pacific officials, has met with considerable success on the divide between Springer and Lemon creeks Slocan district. He has located the Rough & Ready, Bank of England, Two Friends, and several other claims of great promise.

The Galena Farm, which caused considerable excitement in 1892, is again calling for public attention, and the chances are that it will not fall into neglect again so easily.

Dan McGillivray, the railway contractor, is in the Lardeau contry sizing up the country for an electric tramway. His scheme is to build such a road from Trout Lake to the northeast arm of Upper Arrow lake, a distance of 12 miles.

There was a rumor current during the week that the co-owners of the Noble Five group were likely to reach an amicable adjustment of existing difficulties, and that a manager acceptable to all concerned should be appointed to work the properties and develop the mines.

Part of the machinery for the Hall Mines, Limited, smelter will arrive at Nelson from Chicago next week. The superintendent of construction is expected in from Kansas City to-night.

The Anglican congregation is preparing to build, and the ladies of that body have been indefatigable in their efforts to secure an ample building fund, and they have been successful.

The contractors who are to build the smelter at Trail are on the ground, and are asking sub-contractors to tender for 1,500,000 feet of lumber, 1,500,000 brick, 10,000 cords of wood, two miles of flume, and for excavation and masonry work. A certificate of incorporation has been issued Mr. Humphrey and his associates for a tramway from Trail to the Iron Horse mine near Rossland.

F. C. Gamble, with his son, is on the Duncan river above Hauser lake, making investigations and surveys with a view of determining the practicability of making the river navigable by the smaller lake steamers. His preliminary work will occupy about a fortnight, and if it results in an effort to clear the river, will be of immense benefit to the valuable mining interests in that section.

The Ten-mile creek district has received considerable attention from prospectors this season, between 75 and 100 locations being made, the most likely of which are the Enterprise, Dalhousie, and Ohio groups. The absence of a trail up this creek has prevented much development work, but some of the locaters, notably Messrs. Kirkwood and McKinnon, have stuck to it and accomplished a great deal. The ledges seem to run southeast and northwest, and occur in granite, synite and porphyry.

The inability of the gold commissioner of West Kootenay to appreciate the importance of the many discoveries of high-grade ores at the foot of Slocan lake, coupled with his tardiness in the matter of trail building, will in a very great measure retard the development of the district. These properties are not developed mines, but more than sufficient work has been done on many of them to warrant the expenditure necessary for the trails. The storekeepers were sufficiently satisfied with the worth of the properties to put in a winter's supply of provisions, and the only reason why there will not be from 50 to 100 miners working in this district this winter is that the government has not been alive to the interests of the district. A few of the miners, realizing the loss which will be occasioned by practically a year's stagnation, have made arrangements for the construction of a pack-trail from Slocan City, along the divide between Springer and Lemon creeks, for the purpose of getting out trial shipments this winter if possible. This will serve but a few properties, however, and the bulk of them will not be heard from for several months.

WOLSELEY'S MEDALS.

How the Commander in Chief Won His Decorations in the Crimea.

August is a memorable month for Lord Wolseley, says the Boston Herald. The present August has seen him designated successor to the Duke of Cambridge as commander-in-chief of the British army, and in August, 1855, his gallantry in the trenches before Sebastopol gained for him the Leigon of Honor from France, and the order of the Medjidie from Turkey. It was on August 31, 1855, that Wolseley, then a captain of the 90th foot, serving as an assistant engineer, performed the feat of arms which won him the two decorations, and very nearly cost him his life, for he was so badly wounded that his body was drawn aside for burial.

The story of the wounding is told by Gen. Sir Evelyn Wood in an article on "The Crimea in 1854 and 1894." It is worth repeating, not only for the interest that attaches to the anniversary, but because it brings out in distinct colors the surprising difference between trained veterans and raw recruits, even in a British army, where bravery is always looked for, and one man is assumed to be about as good as another. The regiment that Lord Raglan carried to the Crimea in September, 1854, were largely composed of old soldiers, of sturdy physique and dauntless valor. These were the men whose personal prowess won against great odds the "soldiers' battle" of Inkerman. By the summer of 1855 this splendid material had been pretty much expended. The hardy veterans were dead or invalided, and the troops who came out from England to take their places proved too often of very inferior quality. "They were no longer," says Sir Evelyn Wood, "men in the prime of life, but were weedy boys, and on the 26th of August, when a Russian shell, bursting in the fifth parallel, killed a line soldier, his comrades not only retired, but refused to return to retrieve the body."

The same lack of valor was shown by a British working party composed of newly arrived soldiers on the night when Capt. Wolseley got his wound. A small body of Russians had made a sortie against the British advanced works on the extreme right, where Wolseley was stationed. There was no covering party at hand, and the working party fell back in confusion before one-third of their numbers, in spite of repeated attempts of Capt. Wolseley to rally them." The Russians destroyed some fifty yards of the sap, and then fell back to the Dockyard ravine, from which they kept up an incessant fire. A Russian battery known as the Gervais battery, also played on the head of the sap, and in a short time Wolseley's little party had twelve casualties out of sixty-five men. The gallant captain was at work repairing the damages at the head of the sap, under a shower of bullets, round shot and shell, when he received the wound which so nearly brought his career to a premature close. Here is the description of the affair given by Sir Evelyn Wood:

"Wolseley was on his knees holding the front gabion, into which a sergeant, working also in a kneeling position, threw earth over his captain's shoulder. The gabion was half filled, when it was struck in the centre by a round shot from the Gervais battery. Wolseley was terribly wounded, and, indeed, the sergeant pulled his body back without ceremony, intending to bury it in camp when he found the life of his officer was not extinct. Besides grave injuries in the upper face, a large stone from the gabion, was driven through the cheek and jaw to the neck, where it lodged; the right wrist was smashed, and a serious wound inflicted on the skin. Strange to say, he did his duty, after a rapid temporary recovery, till the armies reembarked, the skin wound becoming more serious later, when the bone began to exfoliate."

Peace and Harmony Reported for Once—Counterfeiters Convicted.

Cuban Filibusters to be Dealt With—Loss of a schooner and Crew.

New York, 18.—A large number of railway officials at the joint committee meeting of the executive officers and passenger traffic managers of the trunk line roads in the Central Traffic Association, was held in the office of the Trunk line this afternoon. The only subject considered officially was the eastbound passenger agreement. The commissioners made a report reaffirming the old agreement and expressing their satisfaction at the loyal manner in which its terms had been carried out. It was said that the Grand Trunk had cut rates on special excursion business to eastern resorts. As a result of the meeting a report may be made to the meeting of the presidents next Friday. The westbound passenger agreement, which is being completed, may be ready for the signatures of presidents in a few days, and may possibly go into operation on or about October 1st. The agreement will specifically deal with charges of rate cutting and payment of commissions and will make full provision for their discontinuance. Forty-three different railways in the east and west were represented at the meeting, and a number of New England lines.

On the steamship Majestic, which sailed for Liverpool to-day, were Commodore S. Glennie, Lord Dunraven's intimate friend, and sailmaker Thomas Ratsey, Mr. Ratsey talked a little before his departure. He said he had a good time and liked the people on this side very much, but that Americans had no sense of humor. "The difference between the two racers on the second day of the race," said he, "was a matter of merely six inches. Valkyrie was in no sense to blame."

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 13.—It is understood that he grand jury of the federal court has found a true bill of indictment against Mrs. Mack, of Hamilton, Ont., the alleged accomplice of George Morrison, in the stamp counterfeiting scheme, and that as soon as the indictment is reported, probably to-morrow, her case will be moved for trial. This is expedient, because a great many witnesses who appeared before the grand jury came from a distance, and they have been asked to remain, although they have concluded their testimony before the grand jury.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—Information has reached the treasury department of the schooner Lark, of Pine Key, Florida. The Spanish minister to-day called at the state department with a statement obtained from the Spanish consul at Key West, that the Lark was only a part of an extensive filibustering expedition fitting out in Florida waters, and asking that the commanders of the revenue cutters now on duty there be instructed to use increased diligence in apprehending all offenders. This information was transmitted to the department of justice and also to the treasury department, and resulted in instructions being sent to the United States attorney and his marshals and also to the customs collectors.

Alpena, Mich., Sept. 18.—The crew of the schooner Kitchen report that when crossing Saginaw Bay yesterday they saw a schooner capsize and sink within 20 minutes. A gale was blowing at the time and the Kitchen could not assist them.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 18.—At this morning's session of the sovereign grand lodge I. O. O. F., the grand sire announced that the resignation of Sovereign Grand Treasurer Isaac E. Shepard, had been received. The resignation was accepted by a standing vote. Mr. Richard Mickel, of Philadelphia, was nominated for the vacancy. There was no opposition and he was unanimously elected. He will be installed on Friday.

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 18.—The 20 Cuban filibusterers, recently arrested near here, were placed on trial to-day in the United States circuit court before Judge Wales.

Oshkosh, Wis., Sept. 18.—Fire started in the carpenter shop connected with Morgan & Company's sash and door factory this afternoon and soon completely destroyed it, together with the carriage factory of Gals Steich, four or five brick stores and piles of lumber owned by the Conlee Lumber Company. The total loss will be fully $250,000.

QUEER QUESTIONS.

Riddles Which the Philosophers of the Last Century Failed to Solve.

There are half a dozen collections belonging to the last century of questions and answers. They are called the Athenian Oracle, the British Apollo, and other titles. Both the questions are most curious and interesting. Of course a large part are religious or Biblical, but many illustrate the old beliefs and superstitions. For instance here are certain Biblical questions:

How long did Adam and Eve continue in a state of innocency?

Why did Adam name the fish?

Why do angels have wings?

Who was Cain's wife?

Where were other floods besides that of Noah?

Why were ignorant men chosen as apostles?

What was Eve's fruit?

Where did the cock stand when he was heard by all the world?

Where was Job going when he was 12 years of age?

Were there rainbows before the flood?

And here are certain secular questions:

Why do drowned men float on their backs and drowned women on their faces?

Is it a comfort to the unhappy to feel that there are others quite as unhappy as themselves?

Why do elephants have no joints

What becomes of the flame when the candle is blown out?

What is a Phoenix?

Is there a race of pigmies?

Is it true that men have one more rib than women?

Do swans sing before they die?

What is the will o' the wisp?

Why are wits alway cowards?

These are questions the books treat solemnly, and provide learned answers for them.—London Queen.
